How General Grant Passed the Day in the Mountain Cottage.

WHEAT CROP OFFICIAL REPORT

Telegraphic Dispatches Exclusively from [illegible] Mexican [illegible] Denby [illegible] Charles [illegible]—Baran [illegible] Termas

MOUNT MCGREGOR, N. Y., June 18.—General Grant's condition is not materially changed from that of yesterday. Dr. Sands arrived this morning, and with him he and Dr. Douglas were with General Grant.

MCGREGOR, N. Y., June 18.—After [illegible] Douglas had attended General Grant [illegible] morning the general fell asleep and slept the greater part of the time until 5 o'clock. Then Dr. Douglas again treated his throat with cocaine and left him to dose which he did until 8 o'clock. He was dressed at 10 o'clock but remained indoors and at noon had not appeared outside. The physician said the general's condition this morning was not worse than yesterday so far as related to local trouble. The general's voice he thought was somewhat improved this morning. The loss of his voice has been the cause of despondency with General Grant since Sunday last. Yesterday he could make himself heard with words but when as the day advanced his voice again completely failed, the general became greatly despondent. This added to the [illegible] of too much exercise yesterday, and both of these supplemented by extreme mental agitation, late in the afternoon and evening, furnish an explanation of the note to his family and physicians and the ground on which Dr. Douglas summoned Dr. Sands to come. Dr. Sands arrived at 11:30 this morning and he and Dr. Douglas are now, 1:30 P. M., with the general. Drs. Douglas and Sands finished their examination of the general's throat and at 12:40 o'clock the general appeared on the piazza where the family were awaiting him to join with them and have a family picture taken. After sitting for the picture the general remained on the piazza reading the morning papers. In meantime the doctors were in consultation. They had found the general's pulse to be [illegible] Sands found no particular change in the condition of the throat since Sunday and both doctors believe there is no immediate danger.

RESTING QUIETLY.

MT. MCGREGOR, June 18.—Seven hours of refreshing sleep, the usual taking of liquid food, the absence of unusual pain, a quiet body and no usual mental strain, constitutes the record for General Grant from 8 o'clock Wednesday night to 5 o'clock this morning. The fatigue that followed his unwise exertion by walking yesterday was a warning that so good a patient as General Grant will not let go unheeded. Mindful of this he has passed a quiet day physically. To what degree his mind has been active is knowledge held only by the general, though the doctors would be glad to share such knowledge, as his mental and his physical condition last evening were running nearly level. So feeble and trembling was the general's body that even his sturdy pluck seemed to weaken. He was distraught in mind, discouraged at heart and weak in body, and because of this wrote letters to his physician and family which he would gladly recall to-day. But while unusual temporary weakness may have occasioned the general's despondency of Wednesday evening, he knows and has within a week expressed to a friend his own assurance that he is constantly growing weaker and more exhausted. He was not deceived in this. No effort was made to lead the general to a false hope. He was last week frankly told that his was failing and that at the end he would probably pass away peacefully, his heart failing when the main spring of vitality had uncoiled and when the physical machinery had run down it would stop. Such is the general's anticipation of the end, which he calmly realizes is not too distant and impossible to avoid.

His courage sank to lowest ebb and realizing the power and influence of mind upon the physical condition such as is now in General Grant's case, Dr. Douglas summoned Dr. Sands. The latter came but found no alarming symptoms save that the general was in no better spirits and at 5:30 this evening started back to New York. Temporary influences may render the general again weak and at any time apprehensive, and the following day may see his spirits recovered, but all the while the vicious sore upon his tongue is deepening and as it progresses so does the general's vitality wane. He has a full knowledge of this and that knowledge will at all times be a background against which may appear temporary changes for better or worse to arouse public interest. But such changes cannot at any time deceive the sick, nor obviate the certainty that dissolution is drawing nearer. While on the piazza this afternoon General Grant shook hands with Dr. M. Babcock, brother of the late General Babcock, and with a wave of his hand presented him to Drs. Douglas and Sands, to whom the visitor further introduced himself. Dr. Newman and Jesse Grant arrived this afternoon.

PASSING THE NIGHT.

MOUNT MCGREGOR, June 18.—Grant spent the evening indoors with his family and Dr. Douglas and Rev. Dr. Newman. During the afternoon he had been coughing occasionally, but not violently, and in the evening he coughed at times in clearing his throat of accumulated mucous, when he was speedily relieved by the physician. During the evening he wrote the following words upon a card, which he handed to Dr. Newman: "It is just a week to-day since I have spoken. My suffering is continuous. Doctors Sands and Douglas say my ailment is improving." A little before [illegible] o'clock General Grant wrote a few words on a card which he passed to Mrs. Grant and which read as follows: "Ask Doctor Newman to have prayers. I want to retire early." The request was complied with and at 9 o'clock Doctor Douglas and nurse composed the general for the night in his room. Half an hour afterwards the doctor, in conversation, said he thought the general was tired, though quiet. The expectoration that so weak is the patient the doctor thought, was somewhat abated and the general seemed inclined to sleep to-night. When asked if he intended to remain here constantly with General Grant Dr. Douglas said he was not certain he would [illegible]. He might, after a time, return to the city for a while and ask Dr. Shrady to come here. The physicians apprehend no trouble to-night. He expresses the belief that General Grant will pass a quiet night.

Midnight.—At this hour the cottage is dark, except a light in the general's room burning low. His condition has not changed.

AFTER MIDNIGHT.

MT. MCGREGOR, June 19.—When General Grant retired at 9 o'clock last night he received [illegible] quantity of morphine [illegible] sleep, but sitting in his chair [illegible] until [illegible] this morning, when Dr. Douglas was called. He cleansed the patient's throat, treated it with cocaine, administered a third small portion of morphine, and the general composed himself for sleep. After leaving the general, Dr. Douglas said:

"The general said to me [illegible] I told him that he had not felt as well [illegible] as he does now. I have no doubt he will pass a good night."

Dr. Douglas has now retired, and the cottage is now dark except for a light burning dimly in the general's room.

PATRIOTIC ORDER SONS OF AMERICA.

DENVER, June 18.—The third day's session of the national camp of the Patriotic Order of Sons of America was for the most part devoted to a consideration of the ritual of order which was reconstructed in part. A clause was added to the constitution providing for the organization of state camps and in their authorizing a new degree to be known as the Patriotic Order Daughters of America. The meetings of the national camps will hereafter be held annually instead of biennially. Resolutions of affection and sympathy for General Grant were adopted. The following were elected national officers for the ensuing year: President, Geo. P. Smith, Denver, Colorado; vice president, I. W. Handley, Cincinnati, Ohio; master of forms, Wm. Al Mench, Montana; secretary, S. A. Sheppard, Denver, Colorado; treasurer, [illegible] Terrill, Connecticut. The next session of the national camp will be held at Columbus, Ohio, on the third Tuesday of June next year. A reception was tendered the national officers at the Windsor hotel this evening and was largely attended. The final session will be held to-morrow.

INDIANS IN TEXAS.

GALVESTON, June 18.—A special to the News from El Paso says: Train men arriving here to-day on the Texas Pacific road report having seen three different bands of Indians near Carrizo pass, a short distance east of Sierra Blanca. If the train officials, who are expert in distinguishing objects, are not mistaken, the Indians seen to-day are Mescaleros who are absent from their reservation without leave on a hunting expedition. This is the first knowledge had that any Mescaleros were off their reservation in the White Oak country.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS.

OFFICIAL CROP REPORT.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The printed report of the agricultural department, giving the condition of the various crops as shown by the June returns, is just out and contains a few extracts concerning wheat not given in the synopsis furnished on the tenth. It is stated that the general average condition [illegible] for winter wheat is the worst official showing since 1868. In 1881 it was [illegible] and [illegible] in 1883, while in the great crop years of 1880 and 1882 it was 99 in June. From close study of the returns it is certain that a large portion of the reduction in area is discounted in the returns of the condition, yet in a few states it is evident that further allowance must be made for the anticipated destruction of area by replanting. Future conditions or misconceptions of present appearances, or both together, are not likely to change the total wheat crops of the country more than 10,000,000 bushels above or below the estimate given of 30,000,000 bushels, still disasters prior to harvest, or wet weather afterwards, might possibly make a greater reduction. Sufficient to this day, however, is the evil thereof.

A CHANGE AT WEST POINT.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The Republican to-morrow will say that General Wesley Merritt will be relieved as superintendent of West Point in August, although his term of office does not expire until next year. He will be succeeded by General Wm. P. Carlin, colonel of the sixth infantry. It is contemplated to establish a cavalry school with instructions separately from other branches of the service and [illegible] at Fort Riley, Kansas, with General Merritt in command, as that post is now the headquarters of the cavalry of which he is colonel. At present the school at Fort Leavenworth is a mixed one for cavalry and infantry, and it is said that the recent transfer of cavalry from Wyoming was in furtherance of the plan for the new school.

MAILS TO MEXICO.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The superintendent of the foreign mail has communicated to the Mexican postal authorities a desire on the part of the government to have the transfer of American mails facilitated at the pass of Del Norte, opposite El Paso, Texas. It was represented that passengers could reach the city of Mexico from New York in eight days whereas mails were nine days en route, the additional twenty-four hours being consumed in transfer formalities when crossing the Mexican frontier. At the suggestion of the United States postoffice the Mexican authorities have already adopted the plan of distributing mails for points in Mexico this side of the capital from the train instead of carrying the mail out to the city of Mexico and sending it back for distribution, which was the former practice.

POLITICAL CHANGES.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The resignation of John H. Tufts, Indian agent at Union agency in Indian territory, has been accepted.

WHAT THE MAIN DEFECTS ARE

A Very Lengthy Report from the Naval Advisory Board [illegible] Explains Why the Vessel Not [illegible]

[illegible] the report of the naval advisory board [illegible] of examination which was sent to the attorney general this afternoon [illegible] Secretary Whitney with a request for his opinion [illegible]

THE SECRETARY'S LETTER.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Secretary Whitney of the navy to-day sent a letter to Attorney General Garland accompanied by a report of the board appointed to examine the dispatch boat Dolphin, which has recently undergone a series of trials to test her capacity to do work required under the specifications. The secretary asks for the attorney general's examination of the report [illegible] what his rights in the premises are. He begins by saying: "Immediately after [illegible] the office papers were presented [illegible] concerning the Dolphin [illegible] of the government [illegible] cursory examination of the papers made for the purpose of determining to what extent I had responsibility in the matter, my attention was attracted to certain [illegible] in the contract. There was a [illegible] of effective stipulation. As I [illegible] however, one [illegible] the ninth section of the contract intended to insure a certain minimum power which provided that on her trial trip effective horse power should be developed by said engines under pressure [illegible] conditions shall be 2,300 and maintained successfully for six consecutive hours, provided that in case of failure of development of this power, the vessel shall be accepted if it can be shown to the satisfaction of the naval advisory board and the secretary of the navy that the failure was due neither to defective workmanship nor material used. This trial having been had under conditions favorable [illegible] the machinery failed in meeting this requirement, having developed but 2,108 horse power for six hours. The naval advisory board in referring to this had stated that they were of opinion that this deficiency was not due to defective workmanship or materials, but that with better coal and well trained engineers the force of these results will be exceeded. For the purpose of verifying this prediction and to satisfy myself, as appeared to be my duty, I wrote upon the 9th of May suggesting to the contractor another trial. As the place of trial had been fixed in Long Island sound by persons authorized under the contract to prescribe conditions of trial, and as the terms were not more severe than those exacted by other nations, I expected an immediate favorable response to the reasonable request. It was acceded to on the 9th of May, over six weeks having elapsed. Meanwhile an examination of the dealings of the department with the contractor, and especially the manner in which reserved payments had been surrendered to the contractor, induced me to select three competent persons to make a thorough examination for the purpose of my advisement as to whether the contract had been properly performed, [illegible] defects in the vessel, [illegible] responsibility for defects observed, if any. The result of that examination made with great patience and intelligence is herewith submitted for your consideration. I now desire an examination of the contract and law by you, that I may be advised whether in representing the government I have in my hands what is in the nature of a bad bargain or broken contract. The report [illegible] stresses that the government has not got in the Dolphin what congress stipulated for, and what should have been obtained. There are three general subjects considered by the board: 1st, speed; [illegible] strength; [illegible] general workmanship.

The secretary then takes up these subjects separately. As to speed he calls attention to the act of congress appropriating money for the Dolphin's construction, in which it is provided that she shall have sea speed of fifteen knots, and says that this requires a speed over smooth water from seventeen and one-half to eighteen knots; that this fact was shown before the committee of congress, and that, therefore, there was reason to expect that speed from the Dolphin, whereas her highest speed for six hours was fifteen knots; that the result of her various trials show her to have a probable sea speed of only between twelve and thirteen knots in service; that she has never developed, for the six hours required, 2300 horse power. As to strength, he calls attention to the report of the board that evidence is meagre that English vessels have to undergo trials of two or three days. But that from the fact that she vibrated when under way, that her floors yielded and that her journals became so heated from slight shifting of her [illegible] that it was necessary to constantly deluge them with water, the conclusion is reached that she is not as strong as she should be.

As to the general character of her workmanship, he quotes that the contract provides for first class material and workmanship. These, he says, are criticised by the board. The secretary continues as follows: While the matter [illegible] in the end [illegible] the government is not receiving what it expected, and has a right to expect in the construction of this vessel. The question which I desired answered is whether the department has the matter of a bad bargain simply, which as between the contracting parties must stand to or is it a broken contract entitling it to insist upon [illegible] something better. And in connection with this question, I desire to be advised what is the effect of the circumstance that the construction has been supervised by the government officials and material passed as sufficient and workmanship similarly approved from time to time during construction. The contract provides for this supervision and inspection [illegible] advised that it has taken place as the work has progressed. Upon this subject I call your attention to the fourteenth section of the contract which provides: "That it shall not, under any circumstances, be obligatory upon the party of the second part to accept the vessel or any part thereof to be constructed under this contract unless the same shall have been completed in strict conformity with this contract, under the supervision of the naval advisory board and in accordance with the provisions of the act of August 5, 1882, etc. If [illegible] supervision and inspection that has been [illegible] to examine the [illegible] contract [illegible] of the advisory board, that ends the matter [illegible] If it is not [illegible] responsible for speed, strength and general workmanship of the vessel, and what are the remedies of the department under the circumstances. I am unwilling to avail myself of the privilege of referring this matter to your judicial judgment and advice, [illegible] [illegible]

REPORT OF THE ADVISORY BOARD.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The report of the advisory board to Secretary Whitney upon its findings in connection with the trials of the Dolphin covers much the same ground as that traversed in the secretary's letter to the attorney general, though treating the subject more fully. The points of interest in it as far as those given from the latter are subjoined. The board states the [illegible] before the Dolphin [illegible] constructed in accordance with the terms of the contract between Mr. Roach and the government. Second, what defects, if any, [illegible] examination [illegible] in her present completed state [illegible] what matters are incapable of determination in [illegible] The board states there is no [illegible] impossible, in making a [illegible] examination of a completed ship in which [illegible] of the work is covered up with [illegible] expenditure of a very considerable sum for [illegible] The Dolphin is intended for a dispatch boat. She has, and was intended to have very little offensive power. [illegible] speed is, therefore, her first and greatest requisite for usefulness. She must be able to possess this quality in all weather and under all conditions. The law authorizing the construction of the Dolphin provided for a speed of fifteen knots [illegible] [illegible] Admiralty [illegible] not having the ability to [illegible] continuously [illegible] That [illegible] should possess [illegible] than [illegible] the [illegible] speed required under conditions she must be prepared to meet, all [illegible] of the board. The Dolphin's trials on the sound are then [illegible] of fifteen knots, where she should [illegible] and a half [illegible]

The report [illegible] referred to [illegible] the Dolphin was subjected to [illegible] very [illegible] and [illegible] strength [illegible] The [illegible] spring [illegible] when she was [illegible] much less severity [illegible] encounter when actually engaged in the service for which she is intended."

The board continues: "This evidence of weakness was corroborated on the occasion of the second trial when, weighted by additional five tons of pig iron the vessel was stripping in throwing her machinery out of line [illegible] crank pins to become [illegible] trial had hardly begun [illegible] point continues [illegible] before the question arises, is this structural weakness due to the [illegible] of execution, or does it proceed from lack of [illegible] to the contractor it is proper [illegible] plans exhibited to the board [illegible] furnished the contractor are very meagre and do [illegible] provide for a vessel of the adequate strength for the use for which the Dolphin was intended. While it is clear that the plans are at fault and if carried out in the best manner would not produce sufficient strength, yet it seems to the board that the Dolphin exhibits a degree of weakness in excess of what can properly be attributed to defective plans. Where [illegible] opinion that the execution must be faulty in this regard but it is not possible to state with exactness the degree of blame that may be attributed to the contractor in this respect with regard to the machinery and opening [illegible] It is asserted that [illegible] attention has been paid to the provision for pressure in the fire [illegible] The question of horse power is then taken up and shown that upon the first [illegible] second her crank [illegible] third she showed [illegible] and on the fourth with a natural draft under the [illegible] These trials were [illegible] the most favorable conditions as to water, coal and management. The report continues:

"With regard to the general workmanship found on board the Dolphin, the board is of the opinion that it does not conform with the terms of the contract and specifications in many particulars." For which reference is made to the full proceedings of board. The report then says the contractor has been at work from time to time remedying the defects pointed out by the board, stiffening the vessel forward, etc. The report concludes as follows: "In submitting this the report the board feels that it can go no further in the discharge of its duty under the instructions governing its action and has to regret that so much as to the vessel's strength rests upon their opinion. Nothing short of trial at sea for some time, and rough water, can satisfactorily determine her actual strength or weakness, and in the absence of such trial or test, so much to be desired, this report embodies the most the board has been able to ascertain. But as the vessel has been recently on a reef in the East River it is necessary that she should be docked and her bottom examined. When this is done the board will submit the result of such examination."

UNION PACIFIC MATTERS.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—It was announced on the 1st of June that the court of claims' judgment in the Union Pacific railway case would be entered in accordance with computations made by experts pursuant to the opinion of the court previously rendered, and that computation which has been just completed showed an indebtedness something over $1,250,000. Only 394 miles, comprising the subsidized portion of the Kansas Pacific branch were involved in the case. The remaining 240 miles of that part of the Union Pacific system has been non-subsidized and thus exempt from claims of the government. The earnings of the Kansas Pacific branch has, however, been kept account of as part of the whole and the court desired as a means of ascertaining the amount due the government as 5 per cent of the net earnings of the subsidized portion, that the earnings of the whole branch should be divided [illegible] upon a mileage basis. Subsequently to the announcement of June 1, the attorney general asked the court to suspend entry of the judgment to enable the government to consider whether it would accept the ruling of the court of claims in respect to the basis upon which the Kansas Pacific division was to be computed, it having been suggested that the actual earnings of the subsidized part were proportionately greater than those of the other part and that if the actual earnings could be ascertained the government would be the gainer. Pursuant to this request the entry of judgment was suspended. Agents of the department of justice and of the interior department have since investigated the subject thoroughly, and the conclusion has been reached to make no further contest over this question. This conclusion having been communicated to the court, judgment has to-day been entered in accordance with the opinion previously announced. The judgment is in favor of the government for the sum of $1,577,000. Pending the trial of this case agents of government and of the Union Pacific entered together upon an investigation of the accounts to ascertain the indebtedness of the road under the Thurman act on account of the 5 per cent net earnings which the company was required under the acts of 1862 and 1864 to pay into the United States treasury, they reached the conclusion that the sum was due from the company [illegible] which has been paid into the treasury [illegible] offset to the judgment of the court. It is also officially stated that [illegible] earnings of various branches [illegible] in the recent [illegible] and various other accounts of minor importance [illegible] considerable additional sum, which, with the amount already paid in, will leave a balance of probably not more than $100,000 due the government upon the judgment of the court. This case was begun more than five years ago.

THE TRAIN DISPATCHERS.

[illegible], June 18.—The American train dispatchers' association convention to-day elected the following officers for the ensuing year: J. W. Lyndon, [illegible] N. Y., president; A. J. [illegible] Ind., vice president; Isaac H. McEwen of Buffalo, N. Y., was re-elected secretary and treasurer. The executive committee [illegible] A. B. Hall, [illegible] W. A proposition to [illegible] an insurance feature in the organization was laid down. A resolution for the formation of local bodies was adopted. CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

[illegible] EXECUTED.

CHRISTIANSBURG, Va., June 18.—Joe Bernet and Henry [illegible] Terrell were executed this morning in the jail yard here, the former for the murder of Randall Jackson, and the latter for the murder of a girl named Mary Foster. The criminals and their victims were all colored. The execution was private, twenty-four invited citizens, officers of the law and a company of militia being present.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

TASLEY, Virginia, June 19.—William Freeman, aged 18, this morning on Chincoteague island, shot Timothy Hills, his wife and daughter, and then killed himself. He had courted the daughter of Hills and she, it is supposed, at the instance of her mother, declined his suit. It is feared that all three will die. Mr. Hills is one of the most prominent citizens of the island.

TERRIBLE COLLIERY EXPLOSION

Ravages of the Cholera in Spain—Madrid Merchants Incensed at the Government—Italy's Cabinet also Disgruntled

LONDON, June 18.—Gladstone delivered up to the queen to-day the seals of office of the prime minister. The queen gave an audience at Windsor castle to Sir Stafford Northcote.

A TENTATIVE DRAWBACK.

LONDON, June 18.—[illegible] assurance that the liberals will assist Salisbury's government [illegible] Salisbury persists in his refusal to take office in the absence of such an assurance. The result is a complete drawback.

LONDON, June 18.—The News says it is able to state that the formation of the ministry is in abeyance, pending negotiations of Lord Salisbury with the liberals.

POSITION OF MR. GLADSTONE.

LONDON, June 18.—The unexpected development to-day in the march of events renders it [illegible] in the opinion of many liberals that Mr. Gladstone, however much he may be disinclined, will be compelled to return to office. It is reported the marquis of Salisbury demanded from the retiring ministry a more comprehensive promise of support than they were prepared to give. It is believed by many liberals also that the visit to-day of Gladstone to the queen at Windsor castle has connection with his subject of return to office. The conservatives on the other hand, however, have not a doubt but that the marquis of Salisbury will accept office.

THE CONFERENCE WITH THE QUEEN.

LONDON, June 18.—[Special.]—The interview between the queen and Salisbury became known at the Carlton club during the evening from the conversation of members who had attended the conference. From this source it was learned that the queen displayed knowledge, grasp of situation and strength of determination such as she has rarely shown in recent years. She brushed aside Salisbury's objection to taking office, because of a liberal majority in the house, by saying she would see to it that the liberals should give his administration a reasonable degree of support. She said she had already been in negotiation with the retiring premier and the latter had agreed to refrain from obstructive tactics on condition that the pending legislation should be completed as begun. The principal subjects of legislation to be affirmed by such a bargain are measures now on their passage for completion of the franchise extension scheme. In regard to measures for the redistribution of seats and new registration there is already a binding agreement between the leaders of the two parties. Therefore Salisbury has no hesitation in pledging himself as the queen desired that they should be carried through to their final passage in the lines on which they were started. All Irish legislation is to be initiated by the new government in accordance with the two party principles without referring to the late administration. And the queen promised to use her influence and prerogative to prevent the opposition from causing embarrassment. In regard to foreign relations the queen was very positive in her demands that the agreement in process of negotiation between Lord Granville and De Giers regarding the Afghan frontier question should be completed in order that the peace may be preserved. She also insisted upon the advisability of seeking closer alliances with certain of the continental powers, especially Germany, and strictly enjoined Salisbury to put an end to the political isolation into which England has been drifting. Lord Salisbury, it is understood, acquiesced in these views and promised to make overtures toward securing a closer friendship with Germany by favoring the latter's colonial enterprises in Africa and Oceanica.

ASSURANCE OF PARTIAL SUPPORT.

LONDON, June 18.—Mr. Henry Chaplin, M. P., will probably be appointed chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster. It is stated that at a meeting of liberal leaders it was decided to give the conservatives an assurance of partial support. This is not enough to satisfy the marquis of Salisbury, and it is not likely that he will announce his cabinet to-day, in which case parliament adjourns until Monday. The conservatives believe that the difficulty in reforming the liberals cabinet will compel the liberals to give pledges.

FIRST LORD OF THE TREASURY.

LONDON, June 18.—In accordance with the decision of the marquis of Salisbury and other conservatives, Sir Stafford Northcote has been appointed first lord of the treasury with the peerage, the premiership remaining in the hands of Lord Salisbury. For the premier not to assume the duties of first lord of the treasury is unusual, but has precedent. Mr. Arthur Balfour will be president of the local government board with [illegible] seat in the cabinet. Hon. Edward Stanhope will be vice-president of the council.

HIS NEW TITLE.

LONDON, June 18.—The queen has sent Sir Stafford Northcote an autograph letter thanking him for his high services and offering him an earldom. He will assume the title of Earl Iddesleigh and Viscount St. Cyres.

DISLIKES LORD RANDOLPH.

LONDON, June 18.—The Parnellites will visit America on the invitation of Mr. Fagan and others. It is rumored the queen dislikes the presence of Lord Randolph Churchill in the new cabinet.

ENGLAND.

TERRIBLE COLLIERY EXPLOSION.

LONDON, June 18.—A terrible explosion took place to-day in the Pendlebury colliery near Manchester. Sixty persons have been rescued alive and seven dead bodies recovered. A hundred miners are still below, and there is only a faint hope that any of these can be saved.

LONDON, June 18.—A dispatch from Manchester [illegible] have been [illegible] from the mine. Probably 150 have been killed. The cages in which the volunteers were descending down to the bottom of the pit got stuck in the shaft, and it was two hours before the party could get to work. The rescued state that when the explosion occurred they fled to the bottom of the shaft, and that they are ignorant of the fate of their companions.

LONDON, June 18.—Another account of the colliery explosion near Manchester says it occurred in Clifton colliery. There were 340 men at work at the time. [illegible] were taken out, but [illegible] it is feared most of these will perish.

CHOLERA INOCULATION.

MADRID, June 18.—Three of the four commissioners appointed to investigate the subject report that inoculation with cholera virus is so harmless that they advise that it be permitted on the ground that it will tend to prevent a panic.

OBJECT TO DISINFECTION.

MADRID, June 18.—The inhabitants of the populous quarters of this city strenuously oppose all measures taken by the municipal authorities to disinfect their dwellings. The resistance of the people became so passionate and persistent that the authorities felt constrained to abandon the enforcement of all the sanitary regulations which had been adopted to prevent the entry of cholera into Madrid or to limit its ravages should the disease find lodgement therein.

INDIGNANT AT THE GOVERNMENT.

MADRID, June 18.—A meeting of tradesmen was held to-day at the rooms of the mercantile club for the purpose of giving expression to the indignation of the merchants of the city at the course of the government in making public the proclamation that cholera had appeared in Madrid. The meeting adopted a resolution that a deputation be sent to King Alfonso to explain to him the very serious injury done to the trade of the capital by the official declaration that cholera existed there. The members of the mercantile club have decided to close their several shops for twenty-four hours and to drape the club house and to curtain the windows, as a protest against what the members consider the extraordinary action of the government in officially declaring the presence of cholera in Madrid.

EXTENT OF THE CHOLERA.

MADRID, June 18.—The official report of cholera in Spain yesterday is as follows: Valencia city, new cases, 15, deaths, 6; Valencia, province, new cases, 108, deaths, 76; Murcia, city, new cases, 94, deaths, 21. In the villages adjacent to the city of Murcia, new cases, 124, deaths, 55; also in the province of Murcia, new cases 64, deaths, [illegible]; Castellon de la Plana, province, new cases, 108, deaths, 45.

ONE NEW CASE.

MADRID, June 18.—In Madrid one new case of cholera was reported, but no deaths. In Valencia City, two new cases and five deaths are reported.

CANADA.

DETAINED BY ICEBERGS.

QUEBEC, June 18.—Captain Suppes of the German bark Margarette, which has arrived from Grauton, Scotland, after a passage of eighty five days, reports: "The vessel was detained by vast fields of ice and innumerable icebergs. The ship first met the bergs heavily on May 3. Finding the ice extended in a solid mass from south to north the ship was turned back to clear water on May 7. The Margarette was in company with the steamship Ben Hope and three sailing vessels, surrounded by hundreds of icebergs, some of them miles in circumference and hundreds of feet in height. Most of these bergs finally entered a field of ice which drove in a southerly direction. The Margarette got clear of the ice in latitude 46, and [illegible] along the eastern edge of the field down to latitude 43 north, longitude 50, when she met seventy or eighty more immense bergs.

THE SCOTT LIQUOR ACT.

OTTAWA, June 18.—In the house of commons to-day the following amendments made by the senate to the Scott liquor act were agreed to: Empowering physicians to sell liquor for medical purposes and authorizing druggists to sell patent medicines and other preparations containing alcohol; authorizing druggists to prescribe eight ounces of liquor at one time. An amendment that physicians and druggists dispensing liquor be obliged to register all sales and make annual returns to the government, was made and carried. A clause imposing penalties upon physicians and druggists for violation of the act, which had been stricken out of the bill in the senate, was restored. An amendment authorizing the sale of beer and wines in the counties where the Scott act had been adopted was defeated.

INGENIOUS COUNTERFEITER.

TORONTO, June 18.—A certain unknown person here has been engaged for some time in cutting up bank bills and ingeniously pasting them together so as to represent bills for large amounts. The practice has been carried on to such an extent that the banks refuse to accept mutilated bills, and the police have failed to discover the guilty persons.

GERMANY.

UNEXPECTED DEATH.

BREMERHAVEN, June 18.—Mr. John Rittig, editor of the Sunday edition of the New York Staats Zeitung, died suddenly on board the North German Lloyd steamer Neckar, on its way from Southampton to this city. Mr. Rittig's death was entirely unexpected. The remains will be taken to New York for interment. Mr. Rittig was born in Prague March 26, 1829. He studied law and took an active part in the revolution of 1848 and 1849. He was made a prisoner, was taken to prison in Switzerland, but managed his escape after being in prison three months. In 1851 he became the private secretary of Karl Vogel of revolutionary fame. After Louis Napoleon's coup d'etat Mr. Rittig emigrated to the United States, and while here he was, in Austria, sentenced to death in contumacium. He was one of the most prominent German journalists in the United States.

FOR A GOETHE MUSEUM.

BERLIN, June 18.—The Grand Duke of Weimar has given 100,000 marks for the formation of a Goethe museum, and has promised another 120,000 marks toward publishing Goethe's posthumous works, consisting of numerous drawings, poems and scientific treatises in addition to his diary.

PREPARING A WARM RECEPTION.

LIMA (via Galveston), June 18.—General Caceres, with 800 men, is now in the neighborhood of Lima, having dodged the column of Colonel Mas, and a final struggle is expected to take place in Lima within the next few days. The result cannot be foreseen, as General Caceres is the idol of the lower classes and is generally popular, but the organization of his men is bad. The government has 3000 well organized troops here and are preparing a warm reception for General Caceres. Gatling guns have been placed on the roofs of the palace and of the president's house.

AUSTRIA.

THE LABOR TROUBLES.

BRUNN, June 18.—The strike of workmen to compel a decrease in the number of their hours of labor is spreading. Factories are closing daily, owing to the hands joining the strikers. The men say that they will insist upon their ultimatum delivered to employers, that ten hours shall constitute a day's work. The military are under arms and will prevent a renewal of the rioting the other night, when factories were wrecked and several soldiers and a number of people were badly injured.

The Oregonian.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY, JUNE 19, 1885.

WILL IT LEAD TO WAR?

Among the conjectural results of the assumption of the government of Great Britain by the conservatives, the party of vigorous foreign policy, is the possibility of interruption of the negotiation with Russia on the Afghan question. The likelihood of this is hinted at in the telegraphic reports to-day. But we think there is little reason to suppose that with the change of government in England Russia will find a pretext in the new policy for making or provoking war or will be willing to hazard it.

However difficult it may be for the conservative party of England to formulate a policy on foreign affairs which will unite a majority of the commons in the present state of parties in that body, it is quite certain that the conservative party is nearer in its foreign policy to the hearts of the English people than the liberal party is. It represents the historical aggressiveness and belligerency of England, and this is a great deal. If Russia now shows any signs of making further movements towards India the conservative leaders will be able to identify support of their party with support of the country, and all opposition will be likely to go down before them.

It is a fashion with many to assume that the old military spirit of England is no longer the force it once was, and that the nation would shrink from a contest with such a power as Russia. It is doubtless true that England has enjoyed practical peace for such a term of years, and has become so wedded to the allurements and comforts of national repose, that it may be more difficult than formerly to rouse her from her quiescent enjoyment. It may be, even, that exclusive attention, for a long period, to the industrial arts and the general furtherance of civilization may have faintly tarnished the bright hue of her uniform, slightly blunted the keen edge of her trenchant blade; but, once roused, and the awkwardness of the first collision over, her boundless resources and the indomitable spirit and bulldog tenacity of her sons would carry her forward on a certain career of ultimate victory. No higher compliment was ever paid to a nation than that rendered to England by the greatest of Russian military writers, when he was reviewing the Crimean war, years after it closed. Todleben was pleased to say that, of the three great nations engaged in that struggle, England was the only one whose military strength grew as the war proceeded, she was the only one who was as fresh at the finish as at the outset, the only one who would have been able to continue the war indefinitely.

It is full knowledge of this national enthusiasm, coupled with recognition of England's practical illimitability of resources, together with a painful consciousness of her own impecuniosity, that has hitherto kept Russia from performing her threatened march on Herat, and though there may be talk now that she will break off the negotiation and make war in consequence of the accession to power in England of those who have stood for thorough measures against her in the Afghan business, we do not believe she will do any such thing. If she had money or credit she might make war, but having neither, she cannot.

A CURIOUS COMPARISON.

It is found that in times of business depression there is always a reduced call for public lands. By recent reports it is shown that the land sales of the first three-quarters of the current fiscal year, as compared with the same part of the last fiscal year, have fallen off more than one-third. For a century national prosperity has ebbed and flowed with the receipts from public land sales. There has been no more trustworthy financial barometer. Receipts from land sales reached their hight before the panics of '37, '57 and '73, and rapidly fell afterwards and the turn of the tide in the rise of receipts has been among the first signs of approaching revival. But this indication of the turn of the present period of depression has not yet appeared. On the contrary, the tide is still receding rapidly. Sales for the three-quarters of the current fiscal year were but 13,750,225 acres, against 21,255,319 acres for the same period last year. In 1835 the government received $14,757,000 from sales of lands. In 1838 only $3,730,000, while in 1843 the receipts dropped to $898,000. It was not till 1849 that the sales began to show a large increase. By 1855 the receipts had advanced to $11,497,000. Then after the panic of '57 they dropped again. For 1872 they reached a total of $2,882,000, followed after the panic of '73 by a reduction that brought down the total for 1877 to $976,000. For 1884 the receipts were $9,810,000, and it is now certain that for 1885 they will not reach two-thirds of this amount. What year will be registered as the lowest point before recovering it would be idle to prophesy. The conditions to-day are different in many respects from those of the past; but there is similarity enough to make a comparison on this topic furnish a useful lesson. Lands have been bought and railroads built far in advance of the wants of the country—much farther, perhaps, than at any former time. But all the forces of industry and business now operate with more rapidity than in earlier days. It was five years after the turn of the tide that followed the panic of 1873 before the sales of public lands showed any considerable increase as a whole, though in particular localities the increase began at earlier dates. It is exceedingly curious, and instructive too, to find that the national prosperity has so steadily ebbed and flowed with sales of public lands, or rather, to find in the fluctuations of land sales so sure a barometer of the prosperity and depression of general business. It is not possible, I [illegible], to predict with any approach to certainty from the history of the fluctuation of land sales, how long the present depression of business will last; but it is highly interesting to trace the incidents of this history and to observe their correspondence with the incidents of the present time.

In a very contemptible way the democratic administration is trying to make a point before the country in the matter of the dispatch boat Dolphin. Secretary Whitney's appeal for instructions [illegible] whether [illegible] shall accept the vessel [illegible] to [illegible] effect. If the Dolphin is not what she should be she ought [illegible] accepted and Mr Whitney knows it now just as well as he will when he gets his answer from the attorney general. The fact that two or more trial trips were made before the boat was able to do what the contract called for signifies nothing. It is very often the case that new vessels need a little "wear" or perhaps some modification before they can do their proper work. The calculations of constructing engineers often "gang agley" and only practical tests can show where the [illegible]. So it was with the Dolphin. [illegible] she now come up to the requirements? If not she is a mistake, and the attempt to [illegible] on the government is a fraud and [illegible] should not be accepted. That is all there is about it.

Whether it is proposed to submit the Morey proposition to a vote in the council to-night or not, we do not know, but it is plain that so important a matter ought not to be hurried through. Time should be allowed to consider and discuss it, and, if it shall be found needful, to modify it. Again, it is not unlikely that other propositions will be submitted by other parties. Let us take time to see what we are about. Any measure hurriedly put through will look as if there were a job in it that would not bear examination. A matter of so much importance and magnitude should not be dealt with in a [illegible] manner without ample discussion.

Some weeks ago it was given out that "Meade," the Copiah county, Mississippi, [illegible], was invited to vacate his office, to which he had been recently appointed. Immediately "the respectable democrats" of that state protested. Meade continues in office, and "all is quiet on the Potomac."

An offensive partisan is a man who holds an office that some other fellow wants.

THE WATER PROPOSITION.

The proposition made to the city by Mr P. F. Morey is simple and easily understood. It consists, essentially, of two parts. First, that the city engage to pay $40,000 per annum for water for all public purposes during the term of twenty years, including maintenance of 400 fire hydrants, water for sprinkling the streets, flushing the sewers and supplying the city offices, and after twenty years water for all these purposes entirely free; and, second, that the charges for water to private consumers shall never exceed one-half those now charged by the Portland Water Company.

A proposition on a matter so important is not to be hastily accepted or dismissed. It should have very full and careful consideration. Although its two parts, as stated above, are very simple, yet the subject is a wide one in its general bearings. Many collateral matters are to be taken into account. It is not wise to jump at a conclusion at once. Time is required for examination of such a proposition in all its discoverable features and possible consequences.

The rates to consumers are not to be more than one-half those now charged by the Portland Water Company. It is probable that competition between the two companies would for a time make the rates very low. But this could not last forever. An accommodation of some kind would be reached by the rivals and then the circumstances might be such that one-half the present rate would be too high. Would the contract at not more than one-half the present rate prevent the city from insisting on a lower rate than that half rate? This is a single question out of many that might be suggested, and it will serve to show that time should be taken for close examination of the proposition.

At present the city is paying about $14,000 per annum for water. The statement is as follows: To the Hydraulic Elevator company for fire hydrants, etc., $6360; to the Portland Water company for hydrants, cisterns, offices, etc., $3600; to both companies for water for the streets (about) $4000; total, $13,960. Thus the city is paying already something more than one-third of the annual sum which it would be required to pay under the Morey proposition. The saving on fire apparatus, including machines, horses, salaries, cisterns, etc., would doubtless be considerable, but we do not know that it can be very accurately estimated. It is not improbable, however, that if the amount that could thus be saved to the city were added to the sum now paid by the city for water the total would be considerably in excess of one-half the annual amount which the contract proposed by Mr Morey would require the city to pay. Then the reduction of one-half to consumers would, at the present time, amount to about $50,000 a year, and would soon be much more.

Not the least of the advantages of the Morey plan is this, namely, that it proposes to bring pure water from the mountains, from a source which never can be fouled or corrupted. Another important thing would be the general stimulation of industry and business that would result from the prosecution of so considerable an undertaking. Mr Morey does not state what his financial resources are, but he asserts that they are ample, and it is generally supposed that Captain Ainsworth is the supporter of the enterprise. At all events the city would have no money to pay till the works were completed and in operation.

But there should be no haste in coming to a conclusion. It is the privilege of the city to get the best terms it can. It may be found that some change in the proposition may be desirable, or again, a proposition from another source may be submitted, which it would be worth while to consider. There is a rumor—we do not know how well-founded—that the corporation known as the Crystal Springs company, which has hitherto been granted the right to enter the city and to use the streets, has a proposition to offer. If so, the present would be an excellent time to submit it. This is a business matter purely, and is so to be considered. Mere hostility to the Portland Water company is not a sufficient basis of action. That company, as any other in its place would probably do, studies its own interest in the rates it makes for water; that is, it makes all the money it can. The people of Portland have an equal right to study their interest in the premises, and to get a cheaper and better water supply, if in their power. It is not a matter of sentiment, of resentment, of hostility or of favoritism, but a business undertaking, and a business undertaking of so much importance ought to be well weighed before a final resolution is taken. The Morey proposition has features in it that strike many persons very favorably. But it may not be the best the city can do. It is proper to take a little time to consider and see.

FIGHTING THE DEVIL WITH FIRE.

A dispatch says that General Crook has given up the hope of running down the hostile Apaches with regular troops and has enlisted a large corps of Indian scouts for service in the mountains. In this matter he is applying the experience gained in former Indian wars and the practical good sense which has so often given him victory. It is simple cruelty to send soldiers disciplined in the civilized order of warfare into the mountain fastnesses where the Indians hide. Over and over again it has been done and it has usually resulted in disappointment or disaster. More soldiers than Indians are killed in such efforts. When they find themselves pursued, the Indians break up into squads and scatter in many directions and it is absolutely impossible to come upon any considerable number of them; and in the meantime from points of concealment they pick off their pursuers one by one. It is folly to continue a method of search which usually ends in failure and which puts brave men in hazard of death at the hand of a skulking enemy which never shows itself. Indian scouts are not only able to track Indians better than the troops, but they are better able to guard against ambush and surprise. They are usually familiar with the ground and are quite as capable of avoiding danger as the hostiles themselves. They are like thieves set to catch thieves, and often do effective work where soldiers accomplish nothing and only suffer terrible hardship. Their loyalty to the service in which they enlist is one of the striking singularities of the Indian character. Treacherous often in their respects and [illegible] their own tribe, when Indians engaged as scouts never betray those with whom they serve. Only a few days ago we heard an officer of experience in Indian warfare declare that he would be willing to trust himself in any situation in which he might be engaged with them, with the worst crowd of Joseph's braves recently returned from the Indian territory. He had found others equally bad, to be absolutely true to their commander in the most trying times.

General Crook does not, of course, intend to send his troops from the field. They will be employed whenever and wherever the hostiles can be massed in force, but the work of drumming the mountains and of driving the Apaches from cover will be given up to scouts who from nature and training understand this sort of warfare.

The English trade returns for May indicate the severity of the commercial depression in the United kingdom. The imports were $6,000,000 less, and the exports $19,500,000 less than the corresponding month of 1884. This shows that the depression continues along the whole line. The trade returns are peculiarly unfavorable, inasmuch as the exports declined in a much greater ratio than the imports. Every observing man must come to the conclusion that trade is bad all over the world, and that only the slow, [illegible] process of time and economy can [illegible] matters in a good business shape.

Canada is trying to borrow $20,000,000, and an agent has gone to London to negotiate the loan. The present debt of Canada is $302,000,000. With the addition of the new loan, the Canadian debt will be one-seventh as large as that of the United States, while its population is one-fourteenth as large. In other words, the Canadians owe twice as much according to their population as the United States owes. Their railroad elephant will probably bankrupt them.

RAILROAD OFFICIALS DISCHARGED.

Colfax, W. T., Organizes a Board of Trade—The California Salmon Season Almost a Failure.

EUGENE CITY, June 18.—[Special.]—Iowa excursionists have had a succession of ovations to-day and profuse declarations of surprise and pleasure are heard on all hands. At Salem carriages were waiting and visitors driven over the town and surrounding country. Assembling at the state house a royal lunch was partaken of, after which short and opportune speeches were made, during which President Swalm was presented with an elegant gold watch by the association. At Albany, Eugene and other towns along the line, crowds of people had assembled to greet the visitors with music and cheers.

At Eugene a stop of one-half hour was made and many availed themselves of the opportunity to take a stroll about the town. Mr. Hoyt Sherman, the Union Pacific's representative, and an OREGONIAN reporter strolled a short distance too remote from the train and enjoyed themselves hugely in assisting the citizens of Eugene to wave a farewell to a rapidly departing train. They are now taking [illegible] of the depot grounds and wondering if the train will back down for them when it reaches the next station and receives their earnest and pathetic appeal. The scene is sadly changed. Half an hour since all Eugene and a brass band was here to welcome them. Now there is not so much as a hotel runner or a bass drum.

Oh [illegible] at a railway station
And did you ever yearn for a fast departing train
If [illegible] to use an expression,
Although until your cousin [illegible] gave great pain.
N. W. DIE.

AT SALEM.

SALEM, June 18.—Just prior to the departure from the state capitol building, of the Iowa Press Association, and immediately following a brief address of welcome by J. H. Albert, president of the Salem board of trade, Prof. Magoun, president of the Iowa college at Grinnell, mounted a chair, and calling the association to order, in a brief, but eloquent and appropriate address, presented A. W. Swalm, president of the association, with an elegant gold watch and chain in a velvet case. Mr. Swalm was unable to control his feelings sufficiently to respond at great length, but his fervent "I thank you" came from his very heart. He then called upon Senator Weaver to express the thanks of the association for the reception given them, which duty that gentleman performed in eulogistic terms, expressing their delight, and and appreciation of all courtesies shown them since starting, and especially to the citizens of Salem for their kindly greeting. Then they moved out of the building, President Swalm carrying as his trophy, an immense head of cauliflower, measuring some fourteen inches in diameter, and raised at the Oregon state penitentiary, and following the H. A. C. band took up their line of march for the depot, from whence they pulled out amid the cheers of the immense crowd collected there.

CALIFORNIA.

REASONS FOR THE RETRENCHMENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—[Special.]—The shrinkage in traffic which caused a heavy retrenchment to be made in the offices and working force of the Southern Pacific company is attributed to several causes: first, the hard times which have prevailed east having reached this coast and been felt keenly by all railway companies in common. This is regarded as the chief element in the present decline in traffic. Another cause for the falling off in business over the lines of the Southern Pacific company is the active competition which it has had to face within the last year. The Atlantic and Pacific is a persistent competitor for east and west bound business, its contract with the Southern Pacific giving it virtually a road into this city. Then the opening of the Northern Pacific has been felt. All freight and passenger traffic which used to go to Oregon and Washington territory via this city has been lately carried largely by the Northern Pacific. The Oregon Short Line, which the Union Pacific has built to a junction with the Oregon Railway and Navigation system, has diverted a certain amount of business. These three active and rushing competitive lines have got a share of the trade that the Central and Southern Pacific Companies formerly controlled in entirety. Business has of course, grown within late years so that its division can be more easily borne, but still the Southern Pacific company cannot afford to maintain the large force of employes which at one time it found necessary to have. In its present retrenchment it has pursued the policy of maintaining salaries. It increases the work of its employes, but it does not cut down their pay.

DENIAL FROM MANAGER TOWNE.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—General Manager Towne denies this afternoon that the operating expenses of the Southern Pacific company has been in excess of the receipts of the company's various roads. He says there was a falling off in the gross earnings during the first four months of the present year, but the net earnings exceed those of the corresponding period last year.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

SLIGHT ACCIDENT AT THE CASINO.—About 9 o'clock last night a ring came at THE OREGONIAN telephone, and the reporter who answered it heard "Good item at the Casino. Lester hurt." He repeated the message to the force, and one of the young men of the Iowa editorial party, who was present, volunteered to go up and get the item. He was requested to see the treasurer, Mike Goldstein. An hour later he handed the city editor the following concise, crisp account of the affair: "Lester and Stevens were coming down with the platform in the first act—one of the iron stays gave way—both fell, Miss Lester striking on back of head—distance about seven feet—stunned pretty bad, not much hurt, came on for her song at proper cue, big applause, great audience present—some little excitement for a minute. Lester got through performance first rate—plucky little woman—[illegible] night again and was on—Gross still sick abed with typhoid malarial fever—matinee Saturday; box office open 10 to 12 every day for sale of matinee reserves." It is evident that the pro tem reporter interviewed Goldstein.

WANTS SECLUSION.—Marshal Harbord of Salem, yesterday brought down Sam Loughary, charged with selling liquor to Indians. Loughary, who is an old man, has served several terms in the penitentiary for the same offense and has just completed a two years sentence. He looks upon the penitentiary as an asylum for him in his declining years and has no sooner been discharged therefrom than he goes and supplies some thirsty red man with firewater for which he has an insatiable craving and so secures for himself another term. The city jail here has several such chronic inmates, but Loughary is probably the only man in the state who longs and thirsts after penitentiary victuals and drink. He will likely end his days in the institution, which for seclusiveness at least is equal to one of the monkeyries to which people retired to be away from worldly things in the olden times.

DOUBLE DROWNING.—On Wednesday of this week, Mrs. Philip De Souzer and her mother, Mrs. Hill, of Roseburg, were drowned in the Umpqua river a few miles below the city. They started early in the morning in a single buggy for a drive into the country, saying they would return early in the afternoon. The ford was known to be dangerous, and they not returning by evening, search was made, and the horse was found drowned near the ford. A short distance below, Mrs. De Souzer's body was discovered, but not the mother's. Mrs. Hill was stewardess for a number of years on steamships plying between Portland and San Francisco, and was well known to many old residents. She was about 60 years of age.

HYBRID CHERRY.—H. W. Prettyman left at this office yesterday samples of a new hybrid variety of cherry, produced on his place. It is a cross between the Royal Anne and Black Republican, and combines the peculiarities and good qualities of both varieties. It is large, firm, fine-flavored, and has withstood the rains without evincing any tendency to crack open. The color is a dark brunette, with a ruddy glow on the cheek. Mr. Prettyman is convinced that he has found the ideal shipping cherry, and will utilize every bud on the seedling tree in propagating the variety. He will plant a large orchard from the trees produced from his budding.

DANGEROUS PLAY.—A gentleman whose son some time since was accidentally drowned, says that it worries him to see so many boys playing around the Stark street ferry slips and the pontoons of the boat houses in the vicinity. He thinks that the boys should be kept away from these places where they are in constant danger of falling in. His idea is a correct one, but it is hardly a practicable one, as no earthly power could keep boys away from such places as he objects to, unless they were placed under lock and key. But some restraint may be placed upon them to keep them from placing their lives in jeopardy.

PRIZE SHOOTING ON THE FOURTH.—The council having granted the Multnomah Rod and Gun Club permission to fire guns within that part of the city limits bounded by Kelly, Corbett, Gaines and Lane streets, the shooting match for the $200 prize offered by the celebration committee will take place there on the Fourth of July, and as will be seen by an advertisement in another column, sportsmen are invited to enter for the shoot. There are some very good shots in the clubs of our neighboring towns, a number of whom will no doubt be on hand and endeavor to capture the prize.

THEATER IN THE MINES.—T. C. Howard, business manager for Jack Langrishe, arrived here this week from the Coeur d'Alene mines, en route to Colorado. He reports Langrishe as doing fairly well in the mines. He has converted a dance hall at Murray into a theater, and gives performances Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday nights. The people of Murray are a very orderly class, and the women will not attend Sunday night performances. Mines are picking up this month, and every one is busy.

BASEBALL.—Owing to changes in the management of the soldiers' nine of Vancouver the third game of the series with the Portlands will not be played next Sunday, as announced. The Dotlets and Stars of this city will play at City View park on that day, Glendenning and Timmins acting as pitcher and catcher for the Dotlets on this occasion, with the consent of the manager of the Portlands. With this battery the Dotlets will give the Stars a hard rub.

WANTS TO RECOVER A SALOON.—Some time since the A. P. Hotaling company closed the saloon of Thomas Knode, in East Portland, by attachment, and it was taken charge of by the sheriff. The wife of Knode claimed that the property was hers under a bill of sale which antedated the attachment suit, and she brought suit against Sheriff Jordan to recover the property. The case was on trial yesterday afternoon and at a special session last night.

LEFT FOR HOME.—Wm. Endicott, Jr., N. P. Hallowell, Miss Endicott and friends left yesterday for the east. They go to The Dalles by boat in order to better view the grand scenery of the Columbia. Frank J. Dodge, superintendent of the river division, accompanied the party to give them all necessary information, and as he has done this for nearly every party of distinguished eastern visitors to this section he is certainly well qualified for the work.

PLACE FOR SURPLUS FRUIT.—The Children's Home can use a quantity of fruit for canning, and if persons owning small orchards, and having more fruit than they use, will communicate with the matron she will be glad to send boys out to pick it. Cherries are being wasted in great quantities now and the benevolently inclined orchardist who is overstocked may confer a favor on the Home by sending word.

EARLY PEACHES.—Oregon peaches of the Alexander variety will be in the market next week if the weather is at all favorable. A score of years ago the earliest peaches in the San Francisco market arrived about the Fourth of July. The peach has been so improved in that time that they now come here from California a month earlier than that date. And now we are to have Oregon peaches in June.

TAKING BACK CLAMS.—The United States fish commissioner's car, under charge of Mr. Geo. H. H. Moore arrived yesterday from Puget sound where about 10,000 of the little neck clams and those one size larger were secured. They will be transplanted in bays on the Atlantic seaboard. Probably the next car load which Professor Baird will send out will be white fish for our numerous lakes.

ACCIDENT.—C. M. Clemens, a carpenter employed on M. L. Mulkey's building at the corner of Morrison and Second streets, made a misstep yesterday and dropped about fifteen feet, alighting squarely on his feet. He was badly shaken up, and his heel and ankle severely injured. He was taken home in a hack, and it is feared will be laid up for some time.

RECEPTION.—At the close of Rev. Mr. Stebbins' lecture this evening (the lecture being in the main church), the ladies of the congregation tender him an informal reception in the chapel room and parlors, and this will be at [illegible] cordial invitation is extended.

EXCURSION TO OAK ISLAND.—To-morrow the Baptist Sunday schools of Portland and East Portland will give an excursion to Oak Island, one of the prettiest spots in the Columbia river. The boat leaves Salmon street dock at 8 A. M. and Jefferson street wharf, East Portland, at 8:30.

DARWIN AND DARWINISM.—Dr. Horatio Stebbins' lecture this evening will be given in the church of [illegible], corner of Yamhill and Seventh streets, with the above title. The hour is 8 o'clock, admission twenty-five cents, and proceeds for the Social Science fund.

BANQUET TO VISITORS.—The committee appointed by the board of trade on reception and entertainment of the Iowa press excursion will give a banquet to the visitors at Masonic hall Saturday evening, commencing at 8 o'clock. It will be catered by Alisky's restaurant.

OPEN AIR CONCERTS.—A band, known as the "Portland Amateur Band," consisting of 18 pieces, will inaugurate a series of concerts on the plaza, beginning on the evening of the Fourth. Due notice will be given of the programme.

THE EAST SIDE.

BOARD OF FIRE DELEGATES

An adjourned regular meeting of the board of fire delegates occurred last evening, a full board being present, except President Cunningham, in whose absence Henry Meyer was elected president pro tem. Following is a synopsis of the business transacted:

Claims of Geo. H. Himes for $2 and of Peaslee Bros. for $4.25 were ordered paid.

The secretary reported he had petitioned the common council for $75 for use of the board, and the same had been granted.

Lists of members of Relief company No. 1 and Grant company No. 2 were submitted, duly certified to. That of Relief company was referred back for the purpose of adding the ages of members which had been admitted.

An amended constitution and by-laws of Grant company was submitted to the board for approval, and was referred to the committee on laws.

A petition was received from a new company organized in the third ward, asking for admission into the department. The company not being lawfully organized, the matter was laid over until next regular meeting, and the secretary directed to furnish the company the necessary information concerning the requirements of organization.

The appropriate committee reported they had been unable to find a seal of suitable design, and they were directed to use their own judgment in the matter and make the purchase.

McEwan submitted a set of rules to govern the matter of badges, which were adopted. By these rules the ownership of the badges is vested in the fire department.

Brady moved that $1 be charged members for each badge, the same to be refunded upon members leaving the department and returning the badge. The amount proposed provoked some opposition, and the motion was finally lost.

Discussion continued at some length until a motion to reconsider the above motion was made. Upon being put it received a small affirmative vote only, and was declared carried.

On motion of Halfpenny, it was decided to procure badges at a cost not to exceed 75 cents each, and a committee consisting of Brady, McEwan and Morris was appointed to procure the same.

On motion of Meade, the secretary was allowed a salary of $60 per year, payable monthly. Adjourned.

THE STAGE

JANAUSCHEK.—It is seldom that the drama loving people of Portland have an opportunity of witnessing such a powerful personation as was that presented by Madame Janauschek last evening in the drama "Zillah, or the Fortune Teller," from the French "La Tireuse des Cartes." This play is by far the strongest in the repertoire of Janauschek. It abounds in dramatic situations, and by the power of its pathos and the deep dramatic plot running through its entire length, appeals to the strongest emotions of human nature. A mother, robbed of her child in its infancy, ignorant of the one through whom she has been made miserable and devoting her life to the discovery of her offspring, at length finding her as the child of another, reared to love that other as her true mother, declaring her identity and endeavoring by all the arts suggested by love and maternal devotion to win her filial love—these pictures are indeed calculated to interest an audience most deeply, and, when well portrayed, to draw from them unmistakable marks of approval. Such was the temper of the house last evening. Every dramatic situation, every portrayal of pathos, won unstinted applause. Well may Janauschek be called the queen of tragediennes. From her first entrance, in the prologue, to the great sleep walking scene in the last act, she sustained her right to this distinction. In her scene with Margaret D'Arbel in the prologue, with her daughter, before her house, in the first act, in the interview with the Countess Donati in the second act, she was great. But it was when she met her child, and allowing the mother instinct to sweep away all other considerations, declared herself to be Francesca's mother and compelled the Countess Donati to an admission of her right, that she rose to the height of her art. Her commanding presence and forceful action in this scene were most striking. And in the last act when, having regained the treasure, her child, she has taken her to Venice, and by all the means love, aided by unlimited wealth, can command, she seeks to secure that affection which her mother heart craves, it is most pathetic, and we doubt if any other actress could so appeal to the emotions of her auditors. Last scene of all, when walking in her sleep she murmurs of her loved one, dwelling with indescribable pathos upon her name, and suddenly wakened finds her child pillowing her head upon her breast and breathing words of tenderness and love into her willing ears—nature yields to the strain of years and the spark of life goes out. This final scene is a triumph of dramatic art of which any actress might be proud. We cannot speak too highly of the company supporting Madame Janauschek. The ladies particularly are as earnest, conscientious and capable actresses as we have seen in many a day. Miss Helen Hand as Francesca, the daughter of Zillah, was most charming and natural. We can hardly believe from the finished acting this lady has done this week that she has not been years upon the stage instead of months. If her work of the present is an indication of her powers she has a brilliant future before her. Miss Emma Hagger as Ninette, though not having much to do, did it with a grace and piquancy that could not fail to please. Miss Virginia Nelson, as Margret D'Arbel and afterwards Countess Donati, did a most effective piece of acting. Mr. George D. Chaplin as Victor Sanson and Learmonte, and Alex. H. Stuart as Count Claudio, were, as might be expected, fully up to the demands of their parts, though neither of the parts played by him were worthy of Mr. Chaplin's powers. The remainder of the cast was all that could be desired and the play was mounted with a degree of care and attention to detail that was most admirable. In deference to the popular demand "Zillah" will be repeated Saturday night instead of "Macbeth" as originally announced. To-night, "Mary Stuart;" to-morrow, matinee, "My Life."

Parties who belong to rifle clubs not connected with the militia of the state say that if there is to be a rifle shooting match on the Fourth, it would be much more interesting if it were not confined to the military. There are many outsiders who would enter for the shoot if allowed. Perhaps this would make the matter more interesting to the outsiders than to the militia boys.

The Willamette is now 11.2 feet above low water mark, and at a stand. The water rose at the first rising to 13.6 feet, and then went down to 11. It is not probable that it will get much higher than at present during this season.

THE BRIDAL VEIL MURDER.

No Solution yet to the Mysterious Killing of the Wood Chopper

Three Tramps Supposed to be Implicated in the Crime Arrested and Brought Here. Little Evidence against Them

The killing of John ——, the Russian Finn, near Bridal Veil falls last Monday night, is still shrouded in mystery. Yesterday, the three tramps thought to be implicated in the crime were arrested, brought here and lodged in the county jail. All of them protest their innocence. They gave their names as William Enos, John Dunn and James Kelly. Enos says he hails from Chautauqua county, New York, and has worked in sawmills on Puget sound. Dunn claims to be a coal miner, and that he is from the town of Anna, Pennsylvania. Kelly says he is from Maryland and works at anything he can get to do. Neither one looks like a criminal and all of them seem lazy and ignorant. Dunn was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Johnson at The Dalles, and Enos and Kelly by Sheriff Crossen. Just how the crime is going to be fastened on the tramps is hard to imagine. It is not absolutely clear that John came with the three tramps who asked for lodging at the paper mill early Monday evening. Harris H. Hawley, the man in charge of the mill thinks John came with the tramps but he is certain that the fourth man, whoever he was, wore a blue polka dot necktie. Jas. S. Urquhart, the telegraph operator, was also of the opinion that John was the fourth man though not certain. Both Messrs. Hawley and Urquhart were here yesterday and identified the three tramps arrested as the ones who called at the mill Monday night. They had only a slight acquaintance with John, and might have mistaken someone else for him. John did not have on any tie and none was found about his cabin.

The tramps say that the fourth man was a Swede named Gunnison, who was also tramping with them. Their story is that after being refused admission to the mill, they proceeded up the track to an empty house near Multnomah falls, where they spent the night, Gunnison and a fifth tramp, who happened along, occupying it with them. Mr. Hawley says that he directed the tramps to the house, just as he had directed hundreds of tramps who passed up this season. When arrested, Enos had $3.38 in his pocket and Kelly had $5.75. Dunn had just four copper cents in a purse. It is not known how much money John had the night he was murdered. A few days ago he was paid $22 by Gordon, the man who employed him to cut wood. The possession of money is not direct evidence against the tramps, though it will not help to establish their innocence.

If John was not with the three tramps at the paper mill, the theory that they murdered him will not stand. His cabin is two and a half miles above Bridal Veil falls, and is hidden in the brush, so that a man going up the track and searching for it would be more apt to miss than to find it. The idea that John invited the tramps to lodge with him is preposterous. He lived in as dreary a hovel as ever a white man inhabited. It is just six feet square. The back is a log, the walls rough sticks and shakes, the roof limbs and earth, no floor, no window, and not an article of furniture. A board about six inches high divides the hovel, one side being a "bed," which is made of moss and a handful of excelsior which was evidently thrown from the cars by emigrants. An old coat was used for a pillow. Four men could hardly have crowded into the hovel. The theory of suicide will not stand, because no weapon was found in the cabin.

During the past three months John had a partner in wood-cutting, and of late they have not agreed. Last week they had a very bitter quarrel in which John threatened to cut the bowels out of the other man. They quit work and came to Portland, where their employer, Mr. Gordon, paid them off.

Yesterday Coroner Cooke concluded the inquest over the remains of the murdered man. The witnesses were Dr. A. H. Bevan, Dr. William Jones, Harris H. Hawley, James S. Urquhart, Peter Neilson and Andrew Anderson. The last two named discovered the body. The jury rendered the following verdict:

We, the jury, do find from the evidence produced that John (name unknown) came to his death on the 17th day of June, 1885, at about 12 o'clock M., from the effects of a gunshot wound in the skull and brain, produced by some person or persons to us unknown, on the night of the 15th or the morning of the 16th of June, 1885; that he was wounded in a cabin on Mr. Gordon's place, about two miles above Bridal Veil.

The body will not be buried before Saturday.

VANCOUVER'S NEW CHURCH

The new Presbyterian church of Vancouver, Washington territory, just completed, will be opened for public worship for the first time next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The Rev. J. M. Condit, of Oakland, California, will preach the opening sermon. There will be a number of other clergymen present who will assist in the devotional part of the services. The building is unique in design and, perhaps, the prettiest for the money on the coast. It has a brick basement covering the entire area of the foundation, with a ceiling of about nine feet, intended for lecture, social and Sunday school purposes. The house designed for public worship rests upon the brick basement, and is a handsome Gothic structure made of wood.

The spire and windows give a fine effect to the building as a whole. The stained glass windows of several patterns, the high Gothic arch, the pretty chandeliers, the pews made of spruce, trimmed in ash and walnut and finished in the natural woods, the modest gallery, the exquisite lecture stand, made of ash and trimmed with walnut, combine in giving an effect and beauty of ornamentation to the interior seldom seen in churches more expensive. This church edifice was begun from the basement about one year ago. It stands upon a plat of ground one hundred feet square, and a more desirable location could not be found in the city. Donald McKay was the architect, and J. T. Sheldon was the carpenter. The building cost about $5,000. The work was begun and continues under the ministry of Rev. T. J. May, and has grown slowly but steadily. This church has many warm friends in Portland who will rejoice to know that the building has been completed and ready for public worship. The seating capacity is about 350.

RIFLE SHOOTING

PRONUNCIATION OF SHEOL

KALAMA, W. T., June 17.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

What is the correct pronunciation of the word Sheol?

ANXIOUS.

The correct pronunciation of Sheol is probably only known to residents of the place and the revising gentlemen who invented it. The word is not found in Webster or Worcester or Johnson, and people will have liberty to pronounce it as they please till they have had an opportunity of acquiring the pronunciation from the natives. There is no use in "Anxious" worrying about the pronunciation of the word. He had better put [illegible] best licks in trying so [illegible] that he will never find [illegible]. PORTLAND, June 18.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The proposition made by Mr. Morey for construction of a new system of water supply for the city of Portland, for which he asks a twenty years' contract at $40,000 per annum, is not as favorable as he would make it to appear in his argument for it. If, as you have recently stated, the receipts of the present water company were last year $104,000, it is not safe to assume that they will be over $110,000 for this year. Now, if Mr. Morey cuts this down one-half, say $55,000, and the city taxes itself to pay him $40,000, the actual reduction is not in excess of twelve or thirteen per cent., which would look like a case of "great cry and little wool." The only material thing we would gain would be pure water, which the Portland Water company have not, nor can have, so long as they pump from the Willamette. It is not wise for the city council nor the people to jump at any proposition until the matter has been weighed dispassionately. You will remember that in 1872 the city went to great expense to obtain an elaborate report on the best sources of water supply, and an eminent water engineer from Philadelphia (Mr. Morris, brother of Bishop Morris) was sent for to counsel in the matter. He summed it all up by recommending that the cheapest and best source of supply was the Stephens springs, whose waters he reported were "entirely unobjectionable" and flowing eight million gallons in twenty-four hours, or enough for a city of one hundred and fifty thousand inhabitants. This flow of water, I am informed, has been obtained control of by an organized water company, who will at the next meeting of the council propose terms to the city much more liberal in every detail at one-half the bonus asked by Mr. Morey. The need of that company is just precisely what Mr. Morey states in his address: "The necessary capital is guaranteed if the city of Portland accepts the foregoing propositions. If the city declines we can do nothing."

In other words if the city will guarantee interest on their bonds they are prepared to go ahead, which I understand the Crystal Springs Water Company will also agree to in one-half of said amount. Let us wait and see. B.

A MONSTROUS PROPOSITION

PORTLAND, June 18, 1885

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The proposition made to the Portland common council by Mr. P. F. Morey to the effect that the city of Portland shall enter into a twenty year contract with him, and pay him $800,000 and in addition give him the privilege of charging the inhabitants twice as much as the inhabitants of other cities of like size pay for water is a most monstrous proposition, and one-sided, and should not receive one single vote in the council. Mr. Morey alludes to the present water company as a cancer from the death like clutch of which he wishes "to save Portland and its citizens." But how does he propose to do it? He proposes to cut the throat of the victim financially in order to cure the disease. Mr. P. F. Morey and his plan as a remedy is far worse than the Portland Water company as a disease. The council has inflicted enough of his schemes on us in the hydraulic and electric light contracts, and it should take care to not push our forbearance beyond a just limit. The right way to settle this question is for the council to regulate the rates of water of the present company, as it can have the legal right to do, and not to give Mr. Morey $800,000 for laying pipes, such as the water company had for nothing. This scheme should be unanimously kicked out of the council. At any rate let the city make no more long contracts with any corporation. X.

THURSDAY, June 18.

The past four days have brought showers of warm rain. This rain was general along the valley and over the eastern section. While it must, to a small extent, damage growing grain, it is believed the damage will be lost sight of in the end, as the outlook promises unusually large. Ripening fruits are sadly hurt by this rain, their value as an article for shipping being almost wholly lost. Produce arrivals have ruled free, and the markets show no particular price changes.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours, 207 ctls wheat, 875 bbls flour, 2881 ctls oats, 228 ctls bran, 256 ctls millstuff, 20,277 lbs wool, 72 lbs hides, 17 cs eggs, 50 boxes fruit, 15 pkgs butter. Also 8201 ctls wheat, 250 bbls flour, 466 ctls barley, 179,348 lbs wool, 2760 lbs hides, 772 sks flax seed from the eastern section.

Overland receipts include 117 bbls [illegible] 2 bbls 2 cs meal, 32 bxs nails, 41 cs [illegible].

FREIGHTS—In the week we have reported two charters. The Hudes goes to a direct port at 42s 6d and the [illegible] loads grain on private terms. [illegible] vessels and their closing leaves but two disengaged ships at hand, with none soon due. The upward tendency in rates is more marked as the en route list has shown no increase and the prospect for a large harvest continues. Vessels in berth for salmon are receiving slow despatch, but freight for later loading is offering more freely. For iron on spot 47s is bid and 50s asked for orders. In futures it is said some transactions have been consummated but particulars are not furnished. Rates promise to rule higher in the first few months of the new season at least. From the west coast rates are such as to keep vessels away from this river except at an advance on the present quotation. San Francisco has reported a dull market at 32s 6d@35s 6d for iron, with owners generally asking more owing to the near approach of the new shipping season. The California tonnage supply seems to be slowly increasing, and there will be no scarcity during first months, although rates must largely hinge upon grain values both at home and abroad. Should farmers sell freely at prices offered, a liberal shipping movement will result, but should foreign markets continue low and coast sellers refuse to let go, tonnage rates cannot improve to any decided extent. Very little shipping is looked for in the next four to six weeks, as the whole trade are interested in knowing how English grain markets are going.

WHEAT—The foreign markets have ruled slow and as a rule sellers had to accept less money when pressed to sell. At the close a better demand is enjoyed and prices are on a firmer basis if not actually improved. English mail advices indicate a more settled belief that crops are to be generally short, and the opinion is expressed that prices must improve when the quantity near at hand is landed and distributed. The quantity on passage is slowly and surely being reduced, to-day's report giving a falling off of 140,000 quarters in the week. England is receiving more wheat from south Russia, but less from all other sources. Her crops are in fair condition, but the yield promises lighter than last year. New York and Chicago have held up in the face of foreign reports and the action of these markets indicates a firm belief in improving markets later on. San Francisco rules extremely dull as wheat cannot be purchased at prices that will admit of shipment. Of late $1 32½@1 35 has been all that could be paid, while sales were effected up to $1 45. This shows how unprofitable shipping has been of late. At present there is a general wait for new crop and a settled market for both grain and freights. Our own market has ruled weak and is about 2½c lower than one week ago. The shipping demand has fallen off to very low proportions, as shippers cannot compete with millers who are getting a good price for what flour they sell locally. Receipts, as wheat, have ruled fairly free but were mostly Walla Walla grades bought ahead. A lot of 500 tons Walla Walla was sold lately to a shipper here and other business has obtained in a quiet way. Shippers have named $1 30 for valley for some time, but as millers went 2½c better they secured the most of what offered. Now that the millers have reduced bids to $1 30 the two classes are on a level. This figure brings out next to nothing in the way of offerings, holders deeming their product worth more money. It is said 400,000 bushels of valley wheat remains unsold, the most of which will be slow to seek a market. As a quotation $1 30 is the extreme for valley and about $1 20 for Walla Walla. Stocks in warehouse here are just going into ship, and with vessels now in berth completed probably no more than one cargo will remain.

FLOUR—The foreign movement is larger, as some is going into ship for London. Shipments to San Francisco are light. The local trade rules very quiet, dealers buying closely under a weaker wheat market and expected decline in flour. Standards quoted $4 50, less usual trade discount; others, $3 75@4.

OATS—Receipts and shipments show a falling off as compared with last week. This is due to lessened buying by shippers, the San Francisco market having weakened. Toward the close more firmness is manifest but values do not improve. Dealers here have taken sparingly, the bulk of sales being to shippers. Holders are firm for full prices and offerings are large. For good to choice, feed 31@32c is quoted, last sales being within this range. Poor grades continue hard to sell.

MILLSTUFF—Bran firmer and higher; other sorts unchanged. The request remains light and wholly local, although millers have shipped some. Quote jobbing values: bran $12@13; chop $16 50@18; shorts $14@17; middlings $18@20.

POTATOES—New quite plentiful and off to 60c per bushel. Old in fair local dealing at 15@20c for common.

ONIONS—California only dealt in, and there is a good demand at 2½c.

BARLEY—Feed quoted $16, brewing $20. The local request is light, but shipments are quite free.

TROPICAL FRUITS—Light request with cool weather. Lemons quoted lower. Oranges selling at $2@3, lemons $6, limes $1 25, cocoanuts 7c, bananas $3 75.

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES—Hard rains have shortened supplies in several directions. Cherries particularly feel this, and there will be few available for shipment. Grocers have bought Royal Annes for 3@4c, while 6c is the quoted extreme. Berries sell freely in a small way at 3@5c as to kind. Currants coming in freely. California sorts cheaper, being plentiful. Apples sold at $1, peaches and apricots 90c, tomatoes $1 35. Vegetables steady. Cabbage 2c, cauliflower $1 25, peas 5c, beans 7c.

BUTTER—A few cases of California came by last steamer and sold at 24@25c. Local in large supply, common to poor grades very slow. Quote best dairy 22½@25c, fair to good roll 15@20c, poor 10@12½c.

POULTRY—Chickens plentiful and slow but at steady prices. Old $3@4, young $2@3. Ducks and geese in limited trading at $5 and $6@7. Turkeys neglected.

EGGS—Receipts have ruled light and were quickly taken up by local dealers. Values advanced to 18c late yesterday and this is quoted to-day.

HAY—Market dull and slow at $10@11 for [illegible] and $8 50@9 for common. Offerings ample.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Government bonds have been inactive and weak, quotations showing a decline of ⅛ to ¼ per cent., heaviest decline being in coupon 4s. The stock market to-day as measured by the number of shares bought and sold, 1[illegible]7,700, was not more active than yesterday, but there was a much better supply of rumors and greater interest taken in transactions. The leading features in to-day's market may be said to be the strength of Vanderbilts and the weakness of Lackawanna. A report that the Vanderbilt party has parted with so much New York Central stock that it has virtually lost the control, and some talk about the efforts of Pennsylvania and Lackawanna managers and also a movement said to have been made by Gould to establish through eastern connection on the Wabash by way of the Grand Trunk and West Shore were received. Predictions were freely indulged in that a surprise was in store for the New York Central party. The market opened weak and prices yielded from ⅛ to ⅜, led by Union Pacific, Pacific Mail and New York Central, while Lackawanna declined 1 per cent. The lowest prices of the day were made this time between 11 and 12 o'clock. There was a rally of ⅛ to 1⅛ per cent., the strongest stocks being Lake Shore which advanced 1⅛ per cent, New York Central and Lackawanna each 1½ and Union Pacific [illegible]. In the afternoon the general list remained about steady until near the close, when it showed some signs of being tired, but closed steady a little below the best prices of the day.

DAY OF PRAYER.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. of this city met in their hall, corner of Alder and Fifth streets, in response to the call of Mrs. H. K. Hines, president of the Oregon State W. C. T. U., to offer prayers for the general work, and especially for blessings on the annual meeting to be held in East Portland on the 23d, 24th and 25th of the present month.

The opening exercises were conducted by Mrs. G. Couper, who offered prayer and read the scriptures with appropriate comments on the grace of charity. Prayer by Mrs. W. Bond was followed by singing, after which Mrs. Chaplain Stubbs discoursed briefly and tersely on the words: "Where two or three are gathered together in my name there am I in the midst."

The following "Birthday prohibition consecration" was then read by Rev. R. S. Stubbs, the chaplain to seamen in this port:

"For God and home and my adopted land. The time-measure of my past life is defined by the following dates: June 18, 1835, to June 18, 1885. Now, therefore, be it known, that in view of the fact that the business of the 200,000 liquor sellers of the United States absorbs $900,000,000 of the nation's earnings annually; that it dooms 60,000 of our citizens each year to drunkards' graves; that it corrupts our youth, desolates our homes, sinks our ships, wrecks our trains, fills our prisons, makes our paupers, tramples our virgins and innocent children beneath its crushing heel, and by the aid of its political alliances flaunts defiance in the face of the will of the majority of our people, I do, on the 18th day of June, sacred to the 50th anniversary of my birthday, and in this the 30th year of my sworn allegiance to the United States, and of my unswerving devotion to the republican party, reverently and conscientiously avouch my political and religious consecration to the political organization whose platform does now and shall hereafter include the prohibition of the manufacture, or sale, or use of intoxicating drinks as a beverage. I can do no less; I can defer no longer. God keep me faithful until death. This vow I believe I owe to the pure and virtuous womanhood of this my adopted land, and especially to those of the Woman's Christian Temperance unions whom God has raised up, on whom he will yet confer the electric franchise, for so heroically toiling, praying to deliver our heritage and its millions of innocent children and the victims of drink from the bondage and degradation which the liquor business threatens to fix upon us." Robert Sherwood Stubbs.

The effect of the reading of the above by this well known clergyman, was apparent to all present; it was followed by hymns and prayers and remarks indicating thankfulness and the recognition of God as the inspiring source of its sentiments. Quite a number of ladies participated in these exercises, also Mr. Frank Alumbaugh of Iowa, and the Rev. Mr. Webb, pastor of the Christian church of this city. Mrs. Henry M. Riggs, the president of the local union, so indefatigable and unwearied in her labors, offered a deeply affecting prayer at the close. All present expressed their great joy and hope in the prospects of the future triumphs of prohibition.

STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION,
SALEM, Oregon, June 13, 1885.

The State Teachers' Association will convene at Astoria Monday evening, July 6th, and continue in session July 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th.

All teachers and friends of education are cordially invited to attend, and aid in promoting and developing the educational work of our state.

An excellent programme is being prepared, and will be published at an early day. Prominent teachers and lecturers from our colleges and leading public schools will be present, and take part in the exercises of the association. Every effort will be made to make each session eminently interesting, instructive and successful.

Arrangements have been made by which all persons attending the association and paying full fare over the East and West Side divisions of the Oregon and California railway to Portland, will be entitled to return tickets at 20 per cent. off from regular fare to destination.

Arrangements have been made with the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company for excursion rates of $2 50 per person from Portland to Astoria and return.

The Oregon Railway and Navigation Company's excursion steamers will leave Ash street dock, Portland, at 6 o'clock A. M. for Astoria, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings, July 6, 7 and 8, at which time round trip tickets may be purchased at the Ash street office.

By special arrangement, the return time on the Oregon and California railway has been extended so as to include Thursday, July 16, and by special arrangement the excursion rates on the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company's steamers will be good to return to Portland until September 30.

This will enable persons from different parts of the state attending the association to remain and visit the seacoast, if they so desire.

Thursday, July 9, will be devoted to excursions to Fort Stevens, Fort Canby, Ilwaco, Young's River falls and other points of interest. For this purpose arrangements have been made with Captain J. H. D. Gray of the Ilwaco Steam Navigation Company to furnish transportation on that company's steamers.

The leading hotels in Astoria will make liberal reductions, and the hospitable citizens of that city have arranged to entertain the visiting teachers during the days of the association.

E. B. McELROY, Sup't Public Instruction.

THE ORGANIZED APPETITE.

The President's Daily Annoyances from the Persistent Office Beggars.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 10.—Of the millions of voters who voted to make Mr. Cleveland president, about three or four hundred remain here begging him and his cabinet for offices for themselves or for friends.

But, then, those 300 are as persistent as fleas in a Spanish inn or as flies on a hot August day. Many of their faces have become familiar in every place where an office can be begged for. Many of them have gone home and returned. Some of them have been here ever since the 4th of March. Some of them, of course, are recent arrivals fresh on the scene. Some of them want office for themselves, others are the agents of friends. Considering how small Uncle Sam's pay is one wonders how these creatures expect to get back their hotel bills and other expenses even if they should get office, which is not at all likely, or how those who are acting as agents for others are going to get pay for boring the president and the cabinet day after day in a way that disgusts and irritates all who look on at the daily crowd.

They have become a serious hindrance to public business. They spoil the president's day, for they come early and in force, and they continue coming pretty much all day. For weeks Mr. Cleveland has worked almost every night until 1 o'clock, after giving the day from 9 o'clock to office beggars. For weeks those members of the cabinet who are supposed to have "something to give away" have been compelled to work at night also at the necessary labors of the administration.

And all not because the democratic party is "an organized appetite," but because 300 or 400 persistent office beggars, who claim to be the democratic party, stay here to take up the time of the president and cabinet with their wretched appeals. A man comes here for some office, sometimes for any office he can get. He is armed with a lot of too easily got recommendations from influential men, who do not care whether he gets anything so long as he gets out of their sight; he gets his congressman either to introduce him or to give him a letter; he knows a senator, perhaps; he pleads poverty, or long service to the party, or the support of his congressman—almost anything, in fact, but exceptional fitness. He does not ask whether a place is vacant or whether he is wanted. He is simply a beggar. To those must be added a small number of congressmen, who are apt to bring constituents along with them and urge them for places; and it sometimes happens that when a congressman has very strongly and with a good deal of waste of time urged that his friend shall have an office, he comes on later alone to say that the fellow is a "bad lot," and ought not to have anything, but that it would have hurt his (the recommender's) "chances" if he had refused to bring him up.

Mahone Got the Drop.

Washington Special.

It is currently reported here that Senator Mahone, having got news through a brother senator of what the decision in the Virginia bond cases would be before the supreme court, utilized his information by buying up all the coupons he could get. Of course, the coupons advanced immediately, and he is said to have cleared $75,000 by the transaction. Some of Mahone's friends deny it, and say that it is a reflection on the supreme court to suppose such information could leak out. The truth is, though, it is not the slightest reflection on the supreme court, that decisions should leak out occasionally, any more than it is that the whole proceedings of the senate in executive session should be accurately reported. A matter which is discussed by the nine judges of the court must sometimes be overheard. If their footsteps were dogged, their chance remarks to each other on the street cars and at receptions and parties noted and pieced together, any astute person could find out a good deal which was not meant for him to know.

Prohibition in Iowa.

DUBUQUE, June 10.—Ex-Congressman Sapp of Council Bluffs, one of those mentioned for the republican nomination for governor, said here to-day:

Prohibition was proving an utter failure in his city. He believed the enactment of the law was not an expression of the sentiment of the majority of the people of Iowa, but owed its adoption to the zeal of the prohibitionists and the passiveness of a large element of the republican party. This element favored a high license law, the sentiment in favor of which is rapidly growing, and he believed the next republican convention would not affirm its former platform, nor adopt a stronger one in favor of prohibition. It will undoubtedly ignore the liquor question entirely, or pass a high license resolution.

For Good Purposes.

Mrs. A. M. Dauphin, of [illegible] Ridge avenue, Philadelphia, is well known to the ladies of that city, from the great good she has done by means of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She writes Mrs. Pinkham of a recent interesting case. "A young married lady came to me suffering with a severe case of Prolapsus and Ulceration. She commenced taking the Compound and in two months was fully restored. In proof of this she soon found herself in an interesting condition. Influenced by foolish friends she attempted to evade the responsibilities of maternity. After ten or twelve days she came to me again and she was indeed in a most alarming state and suffered terribly. I gave her a tablespoonful of the compound every hour for eight hours until she fell asleep, she awoke much relieved and evidently better. She continued taking the Compound, and in due season she became the mother of a fine healthy boy. But for the timely use of the medicine she believes her life would have been lost."

THE YOUTHFUL MURDERER.

Account of the Capture of Fred Winkleman—In Jail at Union.

The Mountain Sentinel of the 13th, contains a long account of the pursuit and capture of Fred Winkleman, the youthful murderer of Rivers and Allen, in Baker county. From that paper the following extracts are made:

As there was great excitement in Baker, and threats of lynching had been made, it was thought prudent to place Winkleman in the Union jail, and at 9 o'clock Monday night Mr. Healy took his prisoner, accompanied by Lockwood and Britten, and landed him in the jail here before 5 o'clock the next morning. Tuesday morning between 2 and 3 o'clock, a mob did proceed to the Baker jail, the result being that Bill Harper found among them Louis Miller, who was particularly wanted on a charge of barley stealing, and he "took the jail," while the others disappeared.

By permission of the officers a reporter was granted a private interview with the prisoner in his cell, and after telling him that anything he had to say would be published, but that there was no occasion for his making any statement if he thought it would prejudice his case, Winkleman voluntarily made the following confession, which was read to him and pronounced correct:

"My name is Fred Winkleman, and I was born in San Joaquin county, California, near the Buchanan mines; I am 17 years of age, and have a mother and brother living near Lakeview, Lake county, Oregon. I worked for Busby thirty-seven days, commencing the 17th of April, and was to receive wages at the rate of $25 per month. Busby never paid me one cent; I quit work, and as he refused to pay me, I took nine head of horses from his ranch, calculating to take my pay from them. I don't care to talk much about the killing of Allen and Rivers, but it is not true that I shot them from behind; I shot both in the front. I shot one and the other following, I shot him. I shot both in the wide-open, supposing them to be Busby and a comrade pursuing me for the purpose of murdering me."

There was not the least hesitancy on Winkleman's part in making the above statement, and as we understand that he made similar statements to others, the ends of justice cannot be thwarted by their publication. Thursday the prisoner wrote the following letters, which are published verbatim:

Dear Brother: I am in a great deal of trouble. I was at work for a man up here, close to Baker, and he would not pay me and I stole some of his horses, and was getting away, when two men came up behind me and I thought it was the man I stole the horses from and that they were going to kill me and I shot them both, and I was arrested and taken to Baker and put into jail and they was going to mob me, and they took me to Union and put me in jail there, and that is where I am now, and I want you to come and see me as soon as possible, for if you want to see me alive come soon, for my time is short.

Dear Mother—I always claimed the fond love of a dear mother and brother, for I never expect to see your fond face again, nor feel the fondly clasp of your loving arms that fondly cared for me in bygone days that I never shall forget. If I never see you any more, I will meet you in a better land than this, where trouble will be no more, but you must not let these little troubles bother you, for I may come out all right and come and see you. I want you to write as soon as you get this. My love and best regards to all.

FREDERICK WINKLEMAN.

What a Change!

A few short weeks ago that young girl was the personification of health, vigor and beauty. The blush upon her cheeks rivaled that of the rose; her step was light and buoyant, her every movement a revelation of perfect physical health. Yet now she is pallid and haggard, and her superabundant vitality has given place to a strange dullness and lassitude. What has caused this change? Functional irregularities, which can be cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite "Prescription," a remedy to which thousands of women to-day owe their lives. All druggists keep it.
